SES Water - Early September

SES Water is a water-only company supplying approximately 712,000 people in parts of Surrey, Sussex, Kent and south London. Their supply area covers 322 square miles, extending from Morden and South Croydon in the north to Gatwick Airport in the south and from Leatherhead and Dorking in the west to Edenbridge in the east. On average SES Water supplies 160 million litres of water a day which can rise to 260 million litres on a hot summer's day. 85% of raw water comes from underground with the remaining 15% from the River Eden which is stored in Bough Beech reservoir. The company has six main treatment works and over 2000 miles of water mains.

In its Business Plan for 2020 to 2025, SES Water has ambitious plans to cut leakage by 15% and maintain its industry-leading level of burst mains and interruptions to customers' supplies.

Digging Up Britain 2019 Report - Available Now

Building on the success of the pioneering report last year, Digging Up Britain 2019 examines the scale of groundwork taking place in Britain over the previous year (2018) and the risk this represents to the country's utility infrastructure – the pipes and cables owned by energy, fuel, telecoms and water companies, county councils and local authorities.

LSBUD User Terms & Conditions Updated

As Great Britain's leading service for safe digging information, LSBUD interacts with a huge variety of stakeholders. As a result, the team continually reviews how users/companies and asset owners operate and interact with our services.

The Terms & Conditions governing the use of the service, available via the Terms & Conditions link on the login page, have recently been updated so please take a few moments to go through them.
